250th year Knox cannon celebration: Wowzer!

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

It could not have been better. The region celebrated the 250th Anniversary of Henry Knox's "Artillery Train" that dragged 60 tons of urgently needed cannon through this region on its way to Boston to break a British siege — a crucial early victory in the American Revolution. As the Historian Christopher Ruckert depicted Henry Knox, the 25-year-old Boston bookseller who General Washington assigned late in 1775 the daunting task to transport 60 tons of cannon from Fort Ticonderoga to Boston in the dead of winter. He did it. Here, arriving Friday at Fort George, Knox read a statement of his mission.

Trans issue erupts at Qby School

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

A video is circulating on social media of a father speaking to the Queensbury School Board at its Dec. 8 meeting on behalf of his daughter who he said felt unsafe that a transgender girl was using the girls' locker room.

Posted on Facebook, the video accumulated more than 4,000 "likes" and nearly 1,900 shares as of Monday, Dec. 15.

It also sparked more than 575 comments — most but not all agreeing with the comment of the woman who posted it.

She wrote, "...They allow a little boy who now identities as a girl to change in the girls' locker room for gym...and to use the girls' bathroom. Their answer to this is that the school will find 'a safe place for your girls to change and use the bathroom'... They care more about this little 'boys' feelings then they do the

Letter about Chester St. 'misrepresents' view of neighbors

Dear Editor,

I was disappointed by Matthew Collins' recent letter because it misrepresents both the situation on Chester St. and the neighbors who live here. His implication that we lack compassion or under-

Chronicle was 'fair & unbiased,' now has joined 'socialists'

To Mark Frost:

I am really surprised at your biased anti-Republican viewpoint you are pushing in your paper. At one time, 25 years ago, I looked forward to reading The Chronicle. You were fair and unbiased in
